“ I have to go back to warm, happy times when we were all kids, cousins, going to Granny Newcombs for Sunday dinner, nearly every week of Grandma's life. We spent Christmas, Thanksgiving, Easter, Memorial Day, and Mother's and Father's Day with many of the Mayfield's and the Newcomb families together and we didn't care what family you came from. We were all cousins and the Adults were Aunt's and Uncles. How did she feed and stuff so many people in one house? Our Easter's were so fun in our Easter Hats, frilly dresses, and Easter Baskets. Freda was our oldest girl Cousin there. We watched her grow up, graduate High School, get married, and their babies. Freda loved her family, loved teaching, loved cooking and quilting, and most of all loved so many others, you couldn't count them. She had the gift of hospitality, that she definitely inherited from Granny. She is still celebrating her arrival in Heaven, although greatly missed, we celebrate with her.

“ Last year I did a lesson with my high school English class in honor of Thanksgiving. As part of the assignment, I asked student to take a few minutes to call someone, right there in class and tell that person how they have impacted their life. I modeled for them, and I called my dear Freeda. I didn't know I was going to start crying when I heard her voice, but I did. I told her that any success I may have is a direct result of her patient teachings. She dedicated over five years of her busy life to raise me and get me transformed into a fully devoted Jesus girl. During that time I clung to her like a baby. I called her every morning at 5:00am, and she helped me put my eyes on God and keep them there. She was always available to me without complaint. As I drew closer to our Father, I drifted away from my mentor and friend. I went into the world to practice what she taught me. I told her that I wanted her to know how special she is and how important and precious I held in my heart out time together. The call ended with both of us crying and making promises to get together really soon, but we never did. I had company last weekend and did not know about Freeda's decision to meet Jesus until she was breathing her last breaths.

“ Our deepest sympathy to the family. Freeda was the best person we have ever known, always had a smile on her face and always thinking of others. Tears when we read her wishes that in lieu of flowers she asked for school supplies for our schools. That was just like Freeda. God bless her she will be greatly missed in this world and back to her love of helping everyone she can to the next. May God Bless!!!! Pat and Jill Proctor
