“ I miss you girl. No one topped your humor and gift of laughter. I can still hear that laugh and hope I never forget it. How many times did you tell me your halo was crooked cause your horns kept getting in the way. Or where we would fly on our broomsticks. You solved every problem of the world with a giggle and always found the funny in the most serious of situations. I want to say so much more but you already know everything I would want to say. Love you precious angel. Stay close. And when I get to where you are just holler at me, I'll hear ya.
